STATE AMENDMENT THREATENS FAMILIES

Representative Scott Boyd (R - Lancaster) is drafting an amendment to our state constitution that would deny gay and lesbian families legal recognition. Four other state representatives have already signed on to this discriminatory proposal called the Pennsylvania Marriage Protection Amendment. PA-GALA and other political groups are urging the community to encourage legislators to reject the amendment.

What's That About?

Readers write or email "What's That About" editor Liz Bradbury with questions about GLBT issues.

Dear WTA, Did Ford cut our throats or not? It's so hard to keep up... Signed, Focus or Forester

Dear F/F, First they said they will and then they won't, then they say they do and then they don't... so what are ya gonna do?

The anti-gay American Family Association (whenever you see the word Family in the name, run - Family Dollar, Focus On the Family, Pennsylvania Family Institute = danger every time) said they had threatened Ford with a boycott if Ford didn't pull its advertising from gay publications like the Advocate. National Gay Organizations jumped into gear and demanded a clarification from Ford. Ford was a little slow, but as the ire of the gay community grew (and let's face it, we're far more likely to follow through with a boycott on Ford than the average fa- right person), Ford caved and came out with a strong commitment to continue marketing to us in gay publications.

They boycott - we boycott. What's the difference in the motive? We boycott when someone tries to take away our rights. The "Family" associations incite boycotts to hurt organizations that are for equal rights. Yes, their rationale was that you should not give money to a company that supports the idea of equal rights for same-sex families. Funny, we have never tried to take away their right to work, adopt or get married. That's the difference.

FYI ON NJ'S NEW SENATOR

Rep. Robert Menendez - tapped by New Jersey Gov.-elect Jon Corzine to fill his Senate seat - has a strong record of fairness on gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (GLBT) issues, according to the Human Rights Campaign's congressional scorecard.

RAGS TO RICHES TAKE THE FIRST STEP

by Denise McKelvey

Dear Denise, My partner and I have decided to move our family to a larger home. Our child is getting older and we need more space. We will be selling our existing home for about $110,000. We would like to sell it ourselves while our new home is being built. Would you give us some pros and cons on our new endeavor? Signed, For Sale By Owner

Dear FSBO, Some Joyous Reasons:

- to withdraw some equity from your existing home
- more space for your child
- perhaps to have more children
- to encourage your child to live on her own
- you can afford a bigger home

Some Not-So Joyous reasons:

- a death in the family
- a job has been downsized
- a break up with a partner
- the need for assisted living
- you and your neighbors have been feuding for years and you lost the coin toss

Some Miscellaneous Reasons:

- your pets have been uninvited to live in your condo
- you need a change of view
- you've gotten a job with a 90 minute commute, one way

There are dozens of reasons for selling your home and each of them carries its own set of problems and stress levels (even the joyous ones). I think you need to understand the ramifications of selling this property. It takes a certain temperament to accomplish this task. Most people find the monies saved in the process may not be worth it. The adage "a lawyer who acts as his own attorney has a fool for a client" was never more applicable than here.

You may find after putting the sign on the lawn and placing the ad in the newspaper, you suddenly have two full time jobs and that you have given up your nights and weekends. Be prepared for the phone to ring at all hours. Some people will just be shopping, with no intention of buying. An anonymous neighbor might just be trying to get a feel of what their place is worth.

What if you have an open house and nobody shows? On the other hand, what if many people decide to take a peek? Some say nothing; some can't keep their mouths shut. Some will ask all kinds of questions, some will compliment your taste in decorating skills, while others will make insulting comments and not necessarily in hushed tones. You need to be able to remove your emotions from the scene. In today's market, FSBO may be best left to a professional. A real estate broker won't take anything personally, because they don't have any emotional attachment to the property.

If you are still up to tackling the task, some dedicated real estate sites are: For Sale By Owners at <http://webbrowsers.com/fsbomd00.htm> and By Owner.com at <http://byowner.com> and Yahoo Real Estate @ yahoo.

MCC'S FREEDOM TO MARRY COURT ACTION

Speakers are needed for the Rally at the Social Security Building on Friday morning and same-sex couples are needed to apply for marriage licenses at the Courthouse Action on Friday, February 10. Couples are asked to have been together for at least one year and be okay with media coverage. You will be denied a license but will be a part of history, as your names will be on record. Couples must bring the following: $35 in cash. No checks or credit cards. Non-refundable! A Social Security card and a photo driver's license or photo ID. If a non-U.S. citizen: A greencard, passport or birth certificate in addition to photo ID.

If previously legally married and divorced, a certified copy of the divorce decree is required (available in the county where the divorce occurred).

If previously legally married and the spouse died, a copy of the death certificate, published obituary, published funeral notice or funeral card is required.

FYI: You do not need to be a resident of Lehigh County to apply for a marriage license at the Lehigh County Courthouse. Lehigh County is one of the only places in PA that will even let same-sex couples apply for a license. And your denied application will be kept on file, becoming a historical record of your effort for marriage equality.

This file in Lehigh County, with a growing number of denials of marriage licenses for same-sex couples, is a concrete statement that we exist, we want equal rights and we are being denied those rights on paper. No one can say - gay people don't really want to get married anyway - with this record in place. Be a part of history!

To participate, please contact MCCLV at 610-709-8800 or info@mcclv.org

MCC'S FREEDOM TO MARRY CEREMONY & CELEBRATION

Same-Sex Couples are needed to participate in a special marriage ceremony on Saturday, February 11. Requirements for marriage include the couple being together for one year and a meeting at the church. This is a very moving and sacred setting for you to exchange your vows. Should you choose to marry on February 11, you and your family and friends would be provided with a free reception and dance and will be married by over a dozen clergy people representing a variety of faith traditions.

If you are able to participate, please contact MCCLV as soon as possible.

PLANNING FTMD EVENTS

To help with the planning, please attend the next planning meeting on Tuesday, January 17 at 5 p.m. at MCCLV.

MCC'S ML KING DAY OBSERVANCES

MCCLV Observes Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Day Sunday, January 15, 10:30 am and 6:00 pm. Worship Services will include a dramatic reading of "I've Been to the Mountaintop." Rev. King delivered this speech in support of striking sanitation workers in Memphis on April 3, 1968 - the day before he was assassinated.

RANTS & RAVES BY STEPHEN T. LIBBY FEARLESS OSCAR PREDICTIONS-- HAPPY NEW YEAR

For the record, this is 12/25/06 and I am on an island in Maine as I write this. I could not be farther from the show biz capital of the world, Hollywood. While visions of sugarplums dance in the heads of the young and young at heart, you can bet that the Ebenezer Scrooges in Los Angeles are scheming plans to win the Golden Globes, Screen Actor's Guild and all other awards which influence the winners of the Academy Awards, potentially adding millions of dollars to the gross of nominated films.

Some gays watch the Awards for the fashion, some to star watch, some out of curiosity. This year some might even be watching because of the GLBT friendly hopefuls: Brokeback Mountain, TransAmerica, Rent and The Producers. Not me. For me the Academy Awards have always been about the awards. And about the politics of who is chosen the "best".

Of course the "best" performance doesn't always win the trophy. Illness, comebacks, death, and attitude all play into the politics of takes home the gold. For now let's just concentrate on the nominees for the AA, to be handed out Sunday, March 5.

Best Picture: Brokeback Mountain, Goodnight and Good Luck, Munich, Walk The Line, The Constant Gardener or Match Point

Best Actor: Heath Ledger, Phillip Seymour Hoffman, Joaquin Phoenix, David Strathairn, Jeff Daniels or Ralph Fiennes

Best Actress: Reese Witherspoon, Felicity Hoffman, Keira Knightley, Laura Linney, Maria Bello or Scarlett Johansson

Best Supporting Actor: Paul Giamatti, George Clooney, Oliver Platt, Terrence Howard, Will Farrell

Best Supporting Actress: Shirley MacLaine, Michelle Williams, Frances McDormand, Toni Collette, Anne Hathaway

Best Director: Ang Lee (BM), Steven Spielberg (M), George Clooney (GNGL), Woody Allen (Match Point), Noah Baumbach (TSTW)

Documentary should be: Mad Hot Ballroom.

HOLIDAY HAPPENINGS

This past year we could hardly wait to take Lucas for his picture with Santa Claus or "E-Cauz" as Lucas calls him. We planned on sending out the pictures with our holiday cards or even making cards out of the pictures. It was not the Santa Claus experience we'd hoped for. They took nine pictures, each one reflecting a different stage of the terror associated with being abandoned by your dads into the clutches of the giant, living, breathing version of the stuffed Santa at home that became the dogs chew toy. When the crying escalated, the photographer decided Lucas's photo session was over. She called for Daddy to pick him up. Both of us looked at each other to retrieve the little one, and both of us ended up rescuing him. Such drama.

Also on the agenda was attending the adoption agency's holiday cookie exchange party. It gave us a chance to meet with other adoptive parents and potential adoptive parents. We had the distinct honor of representing a successful two-parent gay adoptive family. We fielded some questions from some of the straight adoptive parents who actually seemed quite impressed that we were able to successfully adopt. It took perseverance and faith, and we owe it all to the birth mother for selecting us. She had a lot of faith and a very open mind. Thank you, Nancy.

... Then the dreaded "E-Cauz" made a "surprise" appearance at the cookie party. Time for us to go.

We had a hefty social calendar this holiday season with invitations to the homes of various family, friends, and co-workers. As always, Lucas is included in the invitations. In fact his presence is usually demanded and ensured with follow-up calls from the hosts. Not to say that our hosts are not glad to see us, but Lucas always becomes the center of attention. Are we jealous? Not in the least. Life has never been better than since we became dads. Yes, it is aging us more quickly than we would like and being tired has become the norm; so these two "tired ole queens" are more than willing to turn the crown over to the little prince.

KNOW THY NEIGHBOR

The leaders of Vote On Marriage, an umbrella group of anti-marriage activists, are charging harassment by a Massachusetts gay couple who have launched a Web site listing all the names and addresses of the reported 123,356 signatories to a petition in support of a ban on same-sex marriage (the signatures and addresses are public information under Mass. law). The site, KnowThyNeighbor.org, is ostensibly for the purpose of allowing citizens to investigate fraudulent signatures.

CELEBS ON THE CRIB SEARCH

To the chipmunk readers who have been following my New York story, here is an update on my crib search.

I have come to the realization that I can not afford an apartment on my own and so I have been calling numbers on Craig's list looking for housemates. I answered one and went to check it out. It turns out the guy who is looking for someone to take an empty room in a three bedroom house on 150th street is Gilbert Baker. I never heard of Gilbert Baker before but I am familiar with his work.

Gilbert Baker is the man who created the first rainbow flag. Harvey Milk, the San Francisco supervisor, asked him to design a symbol that would unite the gay community. Milk felt the pink triangle had a negative past and he wanted a new, positive symbol. So Gilbert designed the rainbow flag and the rest is homo history.

Gilbert and I talked for about an hour at the kitchen table. I think I made a good impression, but he has not yet confirmed if I get the room. At the time of this writing he still had not made up his mind but with this crazy transit strike in New York today, everything has been pushed back in this city. City Mouse

LIZ OUT LOUD

By Liz Bradbury

Here's an article by both Liz and Trish celebrating some of the significant and unique accomplishments by GLBT community members in 2005 (in no particular order - all were and continue to be important.)

--The positive court decision on Allentown's Anti-Discrimination Ordinance. Here's to attorney Dan Anders and the pro-bono legal team defending the Ordinance for the City, and the City of Allentown itself for supporting the Ordinance. This pro-GLBT rights decision was closely watched across the state. The win solidly affirms the right of a PA city to protect its GLBT citizens, and all citizens, from discrimination.

--The Crime Victims Council's collaboration with the Allentown School District to develop a bullying prevention program and research survey for all Allentown High School students. This unique program works to prevent harassment, violence and bullying, including anti-GLBT harassment, violence and bullying in a direct way.

--MCC's 2005 Freedom to Marry Day action was even bigger and better this year, increasing the number of couples participating by 400%. The couples, who appeared on TV news coverage, helped educate the Lehigh Valley about inequality due to the lack of civil marriage rights for same-sex couples.

--Steve Libby and the Gaydar Magazine production staff for having pulled off a full year of the magazine to rave reviews. This was and continues to be quite a task, but each magazine gets better and better. Gaydar's efforts to support the community (including fund raisers for GLBT not-for-profit organizations) are extraordinary.

--Steve Black, as an openly gay candidate in a very small town, who won the election for Pen Argyl Tax Collector.

--Allyson Dianne Hamm, longtime GLBT activist, for bringing the US Regional Interweave Conference (a national GLBT group) to the Unitarian Universalist Church of the Lehigh Valley.

--Muhlenberg Freshman Adrian Shanker's success in lobbying his college to change its non-discrimination policy to include the words gender identity.

--And Muhlenberg College for changing the policy and highlighting gender identity in its year long program on identity planned by Muhlenberg's Center for Ethics.

--Here's to all the GLBT people who worked directly on the many triumphant campaigns of pro-GLBT candidates. Including, but not limited to, volunteer Donna Cruciani who helped to lead the Get Out the Vote effort in Allentown that was so broadly successful.

--This year's Anniversaries included: The Lehigh Valley Gay Men's Chorus' 10th anniversary and the 20th anniversary of the FACT Summer Games.

--(Blowing our own horn) We are very proud of the work of Pennsylvania Diversity Network. Including: PA Diversity's Greater Lehigh Valley GLBT Infoline - An average of a call a day comes through the Infoline from GLBTA people asking for help and information about GLBT issues.

--PA Diversity's Web Site - In just one year, with over 200 listings of GLBT friendly services, businesses and organizations, this web site has become the most extensive GLBT service information site in the state, thanks to the hard work of Web Master Robert Roush.

--PA Diversity's Valley Gay Press - Ten thousand VGP newspapers were produced and read this year. With an average of 40 articles, seven original columns, investigative reporting and a ton of information, VGP offers a way for local GLBT organizations to get information to the community at no charge, as we have been doing for nearly 8 years.

--PA Diversity representatives did over 15 trainings and presentations this year to colleges, groups and community organizations on GLBT issues.

--PA Diversity's art show fundraiser at the PA Diversity Gallery Space was an interesting and successful out-reach event that involved several other GLBTA organizations and supported the arts in the Lehigh Valley.

--And also due to the hard work of Robert Roush, PA Diversity Network was able to achieve its 501c3 status as a charitable not-for-profit organization in less than one year. PA Diversity is now seeking grants to broaden our services to the community.

We heartily thank the PA Diversity Board for all their work, support and help on all these projects.

We also celebrate, thank and cheer the work of all the volunteers, activists and organizations supporting, educating and entertaining the GLBT community and furthering the rights of every local GLBT community member. Happy New Year and Keep Up the Good Work!!!

VALLEY GAY PRESS BOOK REVIEW

It's The One That You Want... Margaret Cho's autobiography, a deeply personal and revealing journey through her life and career, draws you in and fascinates you. The book, written in 2001, candidly chronicles some of the most painful events imaginable. Anyone who has ever been discriminated against can relate. Cho, who is straight but remarkably and sincerely supportive of the queer community, felt the sting of anti-woman and anti-Asian prejudice from pre-school on and endured astounding "body-type" discrimination as well. She openly presents her pain, and her drug and alcohol abuse reaction to it, in a remarkably direct and frequently funny way. It's one of the few autobiographies ever that doesn't insist at the end that all the problems have been solved (autobiographers usually write that whether it's true or not.) Yet, there is a strength in Maraget Cho's words that makes the reader feel hope.

"I'm the One That I Want," By Margeret Cho, Ballantine Books $22.95

We believe it would improve the quality of life in the Lehigh Valley if all people were equally protected from unfair discrimination based upon actual or perceived: race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry or place of birth, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status, family status, age, disability or use of a guide animal, in the areas of employment, housing, and public accommodation.

QUOTE #1

"Ford's action is a positive outcome and win for equality and fairness, Ford has sent a powerful signal that corporate America values its gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender employees and consumers." -- Human Rights Campaign President Joe Solmonese.

QUOTE #2

"The religious right would do well to learn, as the Grinch did, that the true meaning of Christmas is not found in commercial expressions of 'Merry Christmas,' nor in 'my faith is better than yours' thinking; if the spirit of Christmas is to exist at all, it must be kept alive in the hearts of believers." -- Imam Daayee Abdulla of the National Gay & Lesbian Task Force Religious Round Table

QUOTE #3

"(State Representative Robert) Belfanti, I moved to your district in March 2005 to take a job with Geisinger Health System. In August of 2005, my partner of 17 years lost his job. Luckily, Geisinger offers health benefits to domestic partners. If you write laws denying him the ability to be covered, what will we do? We would have nowhere to turn. The position I took is a difficult technical position, and Geisinger had trouble filling the post. If Pennsylvania keeps writing venomous laws of hatred against our people, we will be forced to leave the state, depleting resources in jobs like mine that save people's lives." -- From a letter by Robert Roush to his State Rep. (in the Bloomsburg-Danville area) about a bill pushing a PA State Constitutional Amendment against same-sex marriage and same-sex family rights, that could nullify domestic partner benefits given by businesses. Belfanti called Robert to say not only that he would not vote for the bill, but that his Chief of Staff is a lesbian.

QUOTE #4

"Throughout history, gay people such as myself and David have often been made scapegoats by those who fear that we are a threat to the status quo." -- Elton John, who married his partner David Furnish in a UK civil ceremony the day such unions became legal in mid-December. UK civil marriages grant equal marriage rights to same-sex couples.
